GILLIGAN ON THE STAND.

Slayer of Beverly Turner Makes a Good Impression.

STILL LOVES MISS TURNER

(Special Cor. Virginian-Pilot.)

Suffolk, June 16.-With nerves of steel and a voice that bore no trace of tremor Andrew Carter Gilligan went on the of love romance and tragedy-the great love which a young woman bore him. the result of which he feared and tried to stave off, but could not. His plea vas self-defense. He claimed that he had to shoot C. Beverly Turner to save his own life and that of pretty Isabel, one of whose arms was around his neck

He calmed that he had come to the Turner home on the fatal night at the gold-flation of Miss Isabel Turner, and that they were standing under a big place when Beverly Turner surprised them. He denied that he ever uttered any imputations on Miss Turner's chastity, and said he loved Mr. Turner as a father; Mrs. Turner as a mother, and Isabel as a sweetheart. He loved them at the time of the killing and he loves them now. OPENING OF COURT.

OPENING OF COURT.

Court was convened this morning at 10:25 o'clock. The crowd keeps large. Dr. Cameron, the expert Brooklyn surgeon, was put on the stand, and continued to give hypothetical testimony. He was closely cross-examined by Mr. Holland. The witness deduced that the gun was fired five or six inches from Mr. Turner's neck and that it was about 33 faches lower than the wound on the neck. The rigidity of the examination was one of the most severe which has happened during the trial, but the witness stood by his main propositions. se stood by his main propositions. ness stood by his main propositions.

When asked how he came to be in the case the witness explained that he came down here to see dob Fergusson, and got to be a witness at his instance. Witness claimed not to have been related by blood or marriage to the persons involved, and said he had received no extra fee for his evidence.

Mr. Holland asked the witness for the names and addresses of one or two persons whom he had treated for gun shot wounds. The witness gave one, but defense counsel asked that his line of examination be stopped. It was done.

Witness said he was 33 years old next morath. He was a graduate of Columbia Colege, New York.

On being further examined witness derlared that at some of the hospitals the rich and poor received the same treatment so far as the staff goes.

Robert Fergusson was recalled.

Witness said he sent a telegram to Dr. Cameron in Brooklyn to "come at once" and sign his name. Dr. Cameron did not know on what mission he came. Witness said the doctor had not been paid one cent and would not be.

Witness said it was he to whom Mr. Barham brought Gilligan. Witness droys Nick to the home of Mr. Weed and then they went to see Sheriff Edwards.

as active as a man of sixty. He had seen Turner handling lumber.

T. H. Curtis was recalled. He had known Turner for fifteen years; deceased was one of the most powerful men he ever say; could handle lumber better thany any negro he had, and had much endurance. Curtis has been keeper of Point Lighthouse, James river, fourteen years.

W. W. Morris said he had lived with Mr. Turner. He was a man of great vigor, which did not fall up to the day of his death.

On cross-examination, the witness did not know what "physical" meant, but said deceased had large veins.

Witness related about other meetings, and told of the letters, one having been written from Norfolk, one from Richmond and more from Hollins. He told the dates of some letters, which were undated, and which Judge Hinton read. The witness claimed the last note was written between September 10 and 16, 1899, before Isabel went to school last fall. Witness said he had left 40 or 45 notes and letters in a package tied with a pea string at Mr. Weeds. There was also a recommendation from Mr. Turner, a note from Mrs. Turner and Isabel's picture.

Mr. Edwards walked with him. Gilligan sat down and talked in a clear voice.

The defendant said he was 26 years old, and had worked at Mr. Turner's mill. He was shown a map and pointed out the various rooms of the house. When at the house Gilligan slept in the dressing room, the only door of which opened into Miss Turner's room. When the family was away at the springs Gilligan looked after things. He was a trusted agent. When she was gone witness lept in Miss Isabel's room. Christmas, two years ago, witness had taken Miss Isabel to Ivor and had started long before duy. He had taken Miss Isabel to other places.

TREATED LIKE OWN CHILD. "Have no iden the number of times. It was a common occurrence. If I had been his child he could not have treated me better. The whole community around knew about it."

The witness was told to relate his testimony about letters and other things.

He sald he worked year before last with his sister, and passed nights at the Turner home. He worked for Mr. Turner almost as much as for his sister. He was there till Christmas. They wanted him in '99, but Gilligan would not stay. He was asked for his reasons.

BEGGED FOR HIS RELEASE. "Isabel and I were in love. I told her it would be better if it were all broken up. She could do better; she could marry a man who was able to take care of her. She sald no one else could make her happy. I begged her to release me; she would not.

The indications are that the fruit crop in this section, and especially peaches, will be a very large one. Rev. J. Calvin Stewart, of Richmond, will preach at Tabb Street Presbyterian Church to-morrow and declare the pulpit vacant. The committee appointed to secure a pastor to succeed Rev. J. W. Rosebro, D. D., has not yet determined who they will call. A very heavy rain fell throughout this immediate section last night. The rains of the past few days have caused a considerable rise in the river, and the water is nearly over the wharves. Special Revenue Agent Charles Gee, of Disputantia, Prince George county, has within the past few days discovered and destroyed two large illicit stills in one of the upper counties. A large quantity of beer (or mash) and corn whiskey was selzed and confiscated. Mr. Gee has been very energetic in breaking up illicit stills in his district.
